

CELEBRATION—Heinrich Hammer, noted symphonic conductor, and his wife Arlene, run over a musical score at their Pasadena home. He will be 91 Tuesday. Tom Green

Lifetime of Triumphs Recalled by Conductor

PASADENA—On Tuesday, his 91st birthday, Heinrich Hammer will have a half-century of triumphs in the musical world. The conductor, who has led orchestras in Europe and in the United States, has a record of triumphs in the musical world that is almost unparalleled. He has conducted the Berlin Philharmonic, the Vienna Philharmonic, and the New York Philharmonic. He has also conducted the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the Pasadena Symphony. His career has been marked by a series of triumphs that have made him one of the most respected conductors in the world.

Conductor at 89
Hammer first visited a home when he was 18. The German army was moved for the evacuation and he had to leave his home. After three years of army life, he went to study at the Conservatory of Music in Paris. There, along with his musical education, he studied philosophy with August Franck.

Lucky Break
Hammer's entrance as a conductor was his position as conductor with the National Municipal Symphony. When the regular conductor fell ill and no local replacement was available, he was called. The concert was to feature the impressive, fourth act of "Parsifal" at St. Matthew's with two orchestras, two adult choruses, a boy chorus and several soloists.

Gained New Glory
In the next decade he went on to new glory with the symphonic orchestras at Geneva, Leipzig and at Louvain, Switzerland, where he was hailed as the greatest at the greatest of the time. When a newly forming orchestra at Columbia, Germany, pleaded with him to come to
